Performance Academy

The Performance Academy is a technical development program for youth soccer players that is brought to you by Coerver® Coaching, "The world's number 1 soccer skills teaching method", and their international partner, adidas®.

Coerver® Coaching Performance Academies operate around the world with the aim of maximizing each player's development. This is achieved by providing each player with professional coaching, age-specific technical and physiological programs, top-class facilities and an extensive support program on and off the training field.

Our aim is to develop confident and creative players while teaching essential social skills such as good sportsmanship and respect, in addition to a good attitude to practice and play.

Performance Academy Pathway

Performance Academy operates a 3 level, interchangeable development pathway that consists of Development, Advanced and Elite programs.

To gain entry to the Performance Academy, each player is required to complete a practical trial that has been developed to test each individual's ability within our 4S player development model.

Each player's performance in these four areas will determine which level of The Performance Academy the player will be offered a place within. Fall programs include Performance Academy and the Centers of Excellence. Centers of Excellence-Elite trials will be held in Jan of 2011.

The Package

Performance Academy offers a market-leading player package that has been designed to maximize the technical, physical, psychological and social development potential of each player:
